Self Care - You Are Taking Care of Your Clients But Who's Taking Care of You? (5 CEUs)

All clinicians are professionally responsible to the clients they serve. In order to be effective and serve clients with integrity, clinicians have a professional responsibility to take care of their own mental/emotional health; otherwise, how can one effectively serve clients with integrity and competence?

This workshop will explore the correlation between clinician self care and its effect(s) on the therapeutic relationship. Burnout amongst professionals is prevalent. Participants will identify ways to take care of themselves thus allowing them to become more effective therapists.
